Your eligibility depends on the specific fare rules set by the airline, hotel, or travel provider. You can check your eligibility by signing into your account, navigating to "My Trips," and selecting the booking to view the cancellation policy and refund summary. 2. How do I request a refund for a flight or hotel? You can usually request a cancellation online via the "My Trips" section. Select your booking, click "Change or cancel," and follow the on-screen instructions. If you do not see a cancellation option, your booking may be non-refundable or too close to the check-in date, in which case you must contact customer service. 3. How long does it take to receive a refund? • Hotels, Car Rentals, and Activities: Refunds typically take up to 48 hours to process. • Flights: Most refunds are issued within 12 weeks, though this varies significantly depending on the airline's own processing times. 4. Why does an airline refund take longer than a hotel refund? While Chase Travel® processes your request promptly, the travel supplier (the airline) controls the actual movement of funds. Chase Travel® acts as an advocate, but the airline must approve and finalize the release of your money before it appears in your bank account. 5. What if my flight was canceled by the airline? If your flight was canceled or significantly delayed by the airline (usually 3+ hours for domestic or 6+ hours for international flights), you are typically entitled to a refund. You can often choose between a new flight, an airline credit, or a full refund. 6. Are non-refundable tickets ever eligible for a refund? In some cases, yes. If you have "extenuating circumstances"—such as jury duty, military orders, or the death of a family member—you may be able to request a refund for a non-refundable ticket. You will likely need to provide official documentation to the airline. 7. Do I need to contact the airline directly for a refund? Some airlines (e.g., Frontier, Ryanair, AirAsia) prefer to handle their own cancellations. If you are instructed to contact them directly, you can find their contact information in your confirmation email or itinerary. 8. If I cancel a package, is everything refunded together? No. Vacation packages are split into individual parts. The lodging, car rental, and activities are processed separately and usually faster (within 48 hours), while the flight portion follows the airline's standard (and often longer) refund timeline. 9. Can I get a refund if I used OneKeyCash? Yes. If you used OneKeyCash and a credit card to pay, any applicable cancellation fees will be deducted from your OneKeyCash balance first, and the remaining refund amount will be returned to your credit card. 10. What should I do if I'm having trouble canceling online? If the online tool doesn't show a cancel option or you are within 72 hours of your travel, contact Chase Travel® Customer Service immediately via the 24/7 chat or phone support line to ensure your request is documented before your departure time.
